

Year 4 – The World’s Kitchen – Knowledge Organiser

Subject Specific Vocabulary			Exciting Books
cuisine	A particular type of cooking.
produce	Things made or grown in order to be sold, especially fresh fruit and vegetables.
origin	The point or place from which something comes.
import	To bring in from another country, especially as something to be sold.
export	To send to another country to sell.
climate	The usual weather conditions in a place.		Sticky Knowledge about the World’s Kitchen tundra	One of the huge plains in the arctic regions of North America, Europe, and Asia. Trees do not grow on tundra.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Different food produce require different climates to grow. For example, bananas grow in tropical climates.	Important polar	Of or having to do with the North Pole or South Pole of the earth.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Different foods originate from different parts of the world. For example; pizza originates in Italy, Moussaka from Greece, fish and chips from England.	The Roman’s introduced many new fruits and vegetables to Britain thus improving British diet. This included; apples, pears, grapes, onions, carrots, garlic, leeks, cabbage, peas, celery, turnips, radishes and asparagus.
temperate	Having neither extremely hot nor extremely cold temperatures and mild weather.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The UK imports food from countries across all 7 continents; even Antarctica (fish oil).
tropical	Of, having to do with, characteristic of, or happening near the equator.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Fairtrade is a way of buying and selling products that allows farmers to be paid a fair price.	During World War II, food in Britain was rationed. It began in January 1940 when bacon, butter and sugar were rationed. By 1942 many other foodstuffs, including meat, milk, cheese, eggs and cooking fat were also 'on the ration'.
drought	A long period with little or no rain.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Food has changed considerably in the last 100 years. Food habits have changed for various reasons; including the introduction of ready meals as well as better access to a wider variety of foods through import and export.
Mediterranean	A large sea connected to the Atlantic Ocean. It is bordered by Europe on the north, Asia on the east, and Africa on the south.				